

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

2017: 14TH INTERNATIONAL SYMPOSIUM ON MEDIEVAL AND EARLY MODERN STUDIES

“ON THE ROAD AGAIN . . .”: TIME, SPACE, AND IDENTITY IN THE MIDDLE AGES AND THE EARLY MODERN AGE

This symposium brings together scholars in the field of Medieval and Early Modern Studies (up to ca. 1800) working on concepts such as: travel and space, local and global identity, transculturality, transnationality, geographic concepts, scientific explorations of the earth, conditions of travel, etc. The guiding principles are: how did individuals experience the foreign world, how did they move around, how did they learn from other cultures, and how did they communicate across barriers in language, religion, politics, and ethnicity in the pre-modern world.

MAY 5 – 6, 2017

FRIDAY 9AM–5PM

Meinel Optical Sciences Building, room 821

SATURDAY 9AM–5PM

Saguaro Hall, room 101

ORGANIZER AND CHAIR:

DR. ALBRECHT CLASSEN

University Distinguished Professor

Dept. of German Studies

301 LSB, The University of Arizona

520-621-1395

aclassen@email.arizona.edu

Financial support comes from the Department of German Studies, Department of Spanish and Portuguese, the Department of French and Italian, the Department of English, the Dean's Office of the College of Humanities, from SILLC, and from UAMARRC (all UA), ACMRS at ASU and from UA Student Affairs for which we are all very grateful.

aclassen.faculty.arizona.edu